

2018 Architectural Design Conference

Join Us for an In-depth Design Conference

Luna & Associate's Architectural Design Conference offers architects, consultants, spec writers, field observers, field inspectors, property managers and asset management groups the latest updates and advancements in commercial roofing design and construction, as well as selecting the best waterproofing system, zero energy lighting, effective air barrier installations, and more. This advanced program will focus on the role in today's selection of commercial building products and their impact on tomorrow's building performance.

Carlisle's Roofing Design Conference is approved by the Roof Consultants Institute (RCI) for Continuing Education Hours (CEH) and the American Institute of Architects Continuing Education System (AIA/CES).

This program qualifies for (4) AIA credits.
